

EARN
1 CREDIT HOUR!

JOIN US!

FOR A LIVE WEBINAR

The Promise of Nursing

TUESDAY, MARCH 21, 2017 • 1 P.M. EASTERN TIME

Learn how the Affordable Care Act and value-based purchasing may impact the nursing shortage, evidence-based practice, patient care, and ultimately the promise of the future of nursing.

REGISTER NOW: WaldenU.edu/promise

PRESENTED BY ROBIN SQUELLATI, PHD, RN

Devoted to the future of nursing, Robin Squellati is a core faculty member at Walden University, where she teaches health policy and advocacy, and evidence-based practice. Dr. Squellati earned her BSN from New York State University, her MSN from California State University, and her PhD in Nursing Education from Capella University. She served in the U.S. Air Force for 28 years. Two of her many assignments included working with the Air Force surgeon general on health policy in congressional and public affairs, and working for Senator Daniel Inouye on health policy. Her collaboration with health and human services departments, nursing professional organizations, and experts in health care led to innovative health authorizations and appropriations.